John W. Greene, Well Known Here, To Make State Race For Auditor

John W. Greene, who has an adult lifetime of almost continuous legislative and administrative service in state government and as a leader in the Democratic party, today announced his candidacy in the May primary for State Auditor of Public Accounts. Mr. Green is well known and has many friends in Fulton and West Kentucky. He attended last year's Banana Festival.

JOHN W. GREENE

"I believe a proper, closely supervised, audit system could reduce spending in state government," Greene said. "And, I am sure that my long experience qualifies me to establish, expedite, and properly conduct an efficient system of auditing all state and county funds."

Greene is one of the most widely known men in Kentucky and in the Democratic party. Not only has he gained close acquaintance, and respect, with many friends in every county, but knows most city and county leaders by their first name.

Greene, a native of Sandy Hook, is 49 years of age.

He attended Morehead State University, married Alice Lyon and they have three children. His father (John W. Greene) was an Eastern Kentucky Democratic political leader and his mother (Mollie Greene) was superintendent of Elliott County schools.

Greene served two terms in the Kentucky House of Representatives, the 1953 and 1958 sessions and was administrative assistant to former Governor Bert Combs.

He is presently administrative assistant in the State Auditor's office, giving him first-hand and full working knowledge of the elective office he seeks.

The Young Democratic Club of Kentucky elected Greene for 12 consecutive years as their district chairman. He also served eight years as Elliott County Democratic Chairman.

He is a veteran of World War II.

Big Increase Shown In Area Industrial Locations; Fulton Results Discouraging

Industry Locating All Around Us!

(The information reported herewith, has been secured from the Industrial Departments of both Kentucky and Tennessee. Tennessee does not list its industrial expansion programs, Kentucky has no record of Fulton expansion programs, although there may be some under construction, such as Pure Milk Company, that will probably be listed in the 1967 summary. The new factories and expansions cover the period of late 1964 and all of 1965 and 1966. They represent expenditures of many millions of dollars and thousands of new jobs.)

Gilson Latta, Banker, Businessman Was Beloved Citizen, Loyal Friend

by Jo Westpheling

Gilson Davis Latta, banker, farmer, pioneer citizen and livestock dealer died at the Fulton Hospital Monday morning, the day after Christmas. Although he gave up many of his business activities a few years ago, and was in failing health, his death came unexpectedly. He was 73 years old.

It is extremely difficult for this reporter, just as it is for any one of his legion of friends, to characterize the personality of the tall and gregarious Gilson Latta, except to say that he was a "rugged individualist." To use the phrase is a commendable way to say that he had strong courage of his convictions; his business acumen was unparalleled; his devotion to his family, his friends, his home-land and his special interests were so absorbing that they will forever be legendary.

In our family he was held in the highest esteem and respect not so much because we considered him a close friend, but because we admired his wit and humor and his attitudes towards people and things he liked and disliked.

Doing business with him was to learn that it was a complete waste of time to use any of the standard frills of salesmanship. He knew well the products he wanted to buy, the going price for same, and any extraneous conversation about comparable values was a lost cause. His was the brand of business association where you called on him, got the business over with quickly so he could enjoy a friendly visit, telling funny stories, and passing opinions on the events of the day, of which he was extremely well informed, particularly in his varied endeavors.

Gilson Latta was not a politician, as such, but he was a staunch Republican. The Grand Old Party never had a more loyal advocate. The Democrats never had a more vigorous opponent, except perhaps in one rare instance, where this reporter was concerned.

Following the elections in May 1965 my defeat at the polls was compensated many times over just to know that Gilson thought I was one Democrat who would have made a good public official.

In like manner we returned the confidence by respecting him as an astute banker and businessman. The steady growth and success of the Fulton Bank can be attributed greatly to his financial ability.

Wednesday when we called at his home on Third Street to pay our final tribute of respect to him and offer our sincere condolences to his

Metals Industry Likes Kentucky, Figures Show

FRANKFORT, KY. — The metals and electrical industries surged ahead in Kentucky during 1966 with announcement of 24 new plants and expansion of 25 existing plants, Commerce Commissioner Katherine Peden has announced.

When in full operation, the new plants—to cost about $58 million—will employ more than 3,000 workers. Cost of the expansions was set at $19,660,000. They will provide 2,000 new jobs.

"In November, employment in these industries reached 92,400, a gain of 35 per cent over November 1963," Miss Peden said. She added that the 1966 payroll in the metals and electrical industries will approximate $600 million.

The largest single new 1966 project is the $38 million truck axle plant of Rockwell-Standard Corp., now under construction at Winchester, where employment is expected to reach 750.

Paducah Plant to Employ 250
Next is the $7.6 million plant of Essex Wire Corp. going up at Paducah. The facility will produce aluminum wire and cable and employ 250.

Planned at Frankfort is a $3.6 million plant of Bendix-Westinghouse Air Brake Co., which will employ 150. And Anaconda Wire & Cable Co. has announced a 30-employee, $2.50 million facility at Greensburg.

A new $800,000 plant of Queen City Dinettes, Inc., will employ 350 at Florence.

The largest employment gains for expanding plants will come with full staffing of a $3.3 million addition at the A. O. Smith Corp.'s Hermetic Motors facility at Mt. Sterling, where 500 new jobs will

Jo's Notebook

Christmas is over, but gee I wonder if the whole affair isn't getting out of hand. I can remember, and it seems not too many years ago either, that Thanksgiving was a holiday all by itself, to be enjoyed and contemplated to give thanks for our blessings. There were no Christmas decorations around to remind you to shop early because the shelves were stocked with early gift bargains, for Christmas was almost five weeks away.

I well remember, when we used to take our annual trek to St. Joseph to spend the holidays with Paul's family, how the children enjoyed seeing Thanksgiving decorations in the store windows. Less than five years ago, we saw our first Christmas decorations on the streets in a little town in Illinois that we drove through coming back, and we were horrified.

On our last Thanksgiving trip, about three years ago, almost every town had Christmas lights up on our trip going to St. Jo. Even Silent Night was heard, at that early holiday season, blaring from a loud speaker on the street. It made us cringe.

While all of us try to project the Christmas season as one of happiness, joy to the world, etc. etc., I think that I can say truthfully, some of the saddest faces I have ever seen are in the stores and on the streets near Christmas time.

Siegel Industry Plays Santa Claus

In addition to handing out hundreds of garments to many area school children, the Henry I. Siegel Company was also as generous with its employees. Shown above are employees of the front office staff who look forward to the delicious turkeys received as Christmas gifts. They are, left to right: Danny McGuire, Martha Scott, Jo White and Margie Mann.

Christmas Eve was snowy all over the area, but the thought of a good warm turkey dinner was paramount with these South Fulton Siegel employees as they boarded their autos for home for the holidays. Other photos inside.

and paid for, easily available to fulfill the requirements of the industry at a moment's notice.

Is it the lack of abundant water supply; tax emoluments; electricity rates; transportation, communication and public utilities; long-term financing; adequate schools, hospitals, recreational facilities; the proximity to universities and cultural centers; air travel; public housing; modern municipal government; main street modernization; proximity to metropolitan areas; access roads to plant sites; modern highway accessibility; professional services; financial, insurance and real estate services; shopping centers; traffic circulation? —

You can take it from us that the twin cities have a high score of efficiency in all of these categories and more. Again, and as a matter of community pride, we can say without contradiction that in many instances, our twin cities are way out front in comparison to those communities that have landed highly discriminating industries within recent years.

Is it our overall, community spirit?

This question, if answered in the affirmative, would be the most penetrating blow of all to hundreds of hard-working, dedicated leaders in this community.

For we can say, in all candor, and with some authority since we have lived in other small communities, that, in the aggregate, the twin cities of Fulton and South Fulton, have the friendliest, most democratic, warmest neighborliness we have ever had the pleasure to live with.

We say "in the aggregate" advisedly, for in our communities, like communities the world over, there are a few soreheads and a handful of snobs who possibly resent new leadership, new neighbors and new ideas. It would be Utopia to find a community anywhere without this small population, which is luckily becoming the vanishing brood. In the vigorous and energetic atmosphere of our twin cities it would take radar to bring ours into significant focus.

What Is The Answer?

While we point with pride to our attributes and view with satisfaction the greater accomplishments that we shall accumulate in the new year ahead of us (housing for the elderly, urban renewal and slum clearance, a tourist welcome center at the Parkway entrance, full speed ahead on the Latin-American Friendship Center, another successful Banana Festival, a neighborhood Youth Center, creek and street improvements, to name just a few) it appears imperative that we take a hard look at our industrial procurement program with a cold and critical eye.

As industries continue to locate around us it will follow that many of us will ask more frequently, "what are they doing that we are not doing... what do other communities have that we do not have?"

The Banana Festival And Industry

A few people, with little or no knowledge of the financial affairs of the Banana Festival, have commented that the money used to finance the annual Festival should be channeled into the effort to get industry.

It is a justifiable, but stupid comment, for the monies used to finance the Festival have thus far been derived from generous outside sources; earmarked expressly for the promotion of Festival activities.

None of these sources, NOT ONE OF THEM, would contribute one dollar solely for the procurement of industry, for these sources contend, if such contributions were made to the twin cities for that purpose, the same amount would have to be contributed to hundreds of other communities. These contributions come to the Festival because it is an outstanding and unique and worthwhile program.

The only expense borne by local interests in connection with the Festival has been FOR ADVERTISING AND PROMOTION for their individual firms and for personal admissions to the Festival events.

And yet, the Festival has brought us more national and international prominence in just one year, than can be purchased with 50 times the annual budget of the Chamber of Commerce.

Some Thoughts To Ponder

—Does the Chamber of Commerce have ample staff, finances and program to go out and lure industry, or do we merely exist while we wait for prospects to come to us?

—Should we continue to prevail upon a few, volunteer business people to expend their private resources and limited time to secure industry that will benefit the entire community?

—Are we overly burdened with merchants who do a good business, are satisfied with their income, and hinder rather than help the civic programs undertaken by their neighbors?

—Shouldn't we give more than lip service to the growing need for a coordinator for both the Chamber of Commerce's industrial development program AND the Banana Festival, too! Isn't the ultimate goal... community promotion... one and the same?

—Is the reception we give our industrial prospects warm and cordial enough? Do other communities handle these receptions differently than the way we do? Shouldn't we give our prospects more exposure to the warm "togetherness" of our homes, our social life, permitting them to get to know the women-folks too?

—What does an industrial prospect take away from Fulton but a brief case full of cold, dry statistics? Wouldn't a taste of twin cities' incomparable friendliness be a somewhat greater asset to remember than an industrial electrical rate of which ours is compatible with many other communities around us.

—Should the visit of an industrial prospect be cloaked in secrecy? Isn't it time we organize an effective public relations committee to receive prospects to do some extra niceties, when the statistical tour is ended?

—In short, isn't it high time we stop griping about losing industries, and start probing for the answers on how to land them?

GRANT, O GOD

Grant, O God, a love great enough to serve man in his most hateful moment.

A spirit generous enough to help man forgive his most bitter enemy,

A conscience deep enough to discipline man's most treacherous thoughts,

A power strong enough to bind man from the destruction of prejudices,

A charity broad enough to sacrifice man's most cherished possessions,

A courage brave enough to conquer the fight over personal responsibilities,

A wisdom thoughtful enough to solve man's most intricate problems,

A faith strong enough to lift man in his most doubtful hour,

A humility humble enough to anchor man in his loftiest moment of success,

A peace calm enough to stem the sure tide of death.

Then, O Lord, grant us the willingness to serve Thee through serving all mankind.

Amen.

December 16, 1966

Mr. R. Paul Westpheling, Pub.
Fulton Co. News
209 Commercial Avenue
Fulton, Kentucky

Dear Mr. Westpheling:

For the past two years the Fulton News has been a valued supporter of the programs of the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, working with us in our efforts to inform the citizens of the Commonwealth of activities, plans and purposes of their state department of agriculture. Your newspaper has also been a frequent publisher of my weekly column "What's Going On Here."

I sincerely appreciate your cooperation and support. However, as you know, I am now a candidate for the office of state school superintendent. Under these circumstances it may be in conflict with your editorial policies to publish a weekly column that is prepared by and credited to an announced candidate. I can understand your thinking—if that be the case—and I, personally, feel that it would be in bad taste for me to continue the circulation of such a column.

Consequently, this is the last week that my column will be issued. In order to service the many Kentucky newspapers that have found the column to be newsworthy, the department's information section will continue to issue weekly news packets that your readers might find of interest. The format will be the same and the title will be the same; but I will no longer be identified in the column heading.

I hope that you will continue to find useful information in the column and, at any rate, let me express my sincere appreciation for your support during the past three years of my term as commissioner of agriculture.

Cordially,
Wendell P. Butler

FULTON'S

Library Corner

By Brenda Rowlett

This week we shall examine a few of the new novels that can be found on the American Lending Library shelf at the library.

CAPABLE OF HONOR by Allen Drury. The foibles of human ambition and stupidity, and the grandeur of political and personal integrity, are woven into this block-busting novel of national and international crisis. Writing with the skill and insight of one who was himself a Washington correspondent for 20 years, Mr. Drury carries forward the deservedly popular characters of his Pulitzer Prize winning ADVICE AND CONSENT, and its sequel, A SHADE OF DIFFERENCE. He adds to his fascinating gallery a major portrait of Walter Dobius, a famous Washington columnist whose views and prejudices have great influence on his colleagues of the communications media. Mr. Drury describes the way that men like Walter Dobius gain international fame and use it in attempts to sway both the domestic and foreign policies of the United States. More important than any other consideration in this controversial and fiercely satiric novel is this basic issue: how much do Walter Dobius and his colleagues of press, television, and radio influence America's policies—and what is their right to do so?

THE EAGLE AND THE IRON CROSS by Glendon Swarthout. THE EAGLE AND THE IRON CROSS opens in a World War II prisoner-of-war camp. It centers upon a fierce struggle—a battle both physical and moral—waged by two young escapees against a foe at once relentless and sadistic. It takes its place among the probing war novels of our time, but one that offers the reader a shocking jolt of surprise. For the POW camp is located in Arizona. And the two escapees are German soldiers. Their names are Matthe Teege and Albert Pomtow. They are barely out of their teens. For them politics was a jumble of words, and war is slaughter without meaning. They want to escape the bonds of barbed wire, not to fight for the Third Reich, but to flee the Fourth Reich that has been set up within the camp. Their haven is to be "America"—or at least their image of America culled from Western novels and the words of the founding fathers. But it is another America that the POWs discover. They dream of joining the proud Indian tribes of the Wild West; instead the Indians with whom they take refuge have only a terrible captivity to share. One of them, Matthe, finds love—but the girl is a teen-age, gum-chewing Indian prostitute. The pair seek justice, and are tracked by a group of farmer-vigilantes for whom the torture and murder of their quarry is the highest form of patriotism. Finally, in a climax of explosive action and cutting irony, the one surviving German, in alliance with a young Indian who has all but lost his manhood, must enter into a war with the Americans, a war that becomes a vivid counterpart of the other war. In THE EAGLE AND THE IRON CROSS the reader will find the sense of illumination that is the highest art of fiction.

THE BIRDS FALL DOWN by Rebecca West. Dame Rebecca's long and completely absorbing new novel is quite different from any of her others—different, in fact, from anything else being written today—yet totally characteristic of her genius. Set at the turn of the century, it uses the ingredients of an international spy thriller for thoughtful probing into timeless human motives. The story is told through a half-English girl of eighteen, Laura Rowan, whose father is an M. P. and whose grandfather, Count Nikolai, is an exiled Russian aristocrat living in Paris, still passionately loyal to his Tsar.

While she is on a trail journey with him in northern France, the grandfather is confronted by the Tsar's arch-enemy, a terrorist searching for the truth about an apparent double spy. This confrontation and the jeopardy in which it puts Laura precipitate a series of dramatic events in which she is deeply involved. The cold-blooded murder toward which it all leads is a master stroke of irony.

Red Devils End Season Triumphantly

(From SFH Scarlet Flash)
And so, the 1966 Football Season at South Fulton High School comes to a close as the South Fulton Red Devils win the 1966 West Tennessee Jaycee Bowl at Milan, Tennessee. It has been a memorable year for many of us and one we will long remember. It all began on August 5, 1966 when the Red Devils began practice for the coming season. The first two weeks were spent getting blocking procedures and timing down as well as conditioning. Then came the time for the Jamboree. We were a little concerned about the progress we had made, but this was soon erased as the Red Devils showed in the Jamboree that they could play as they willed. They scored 20 points on Halls in one quarter. Then came a large test for the Devils. They knew that the coming game was opposite of one of the better teams of this area this year. However, with Devil spirit, South Fulton came out ahead of Greenfield with a 32-26 win. The following week Gleason came to South Fulton with a 46-6 win over Sharon. Horns blowing and students yelling aroused the Devils for the first 12 minutes of the game as South Fulton took over and sent Gleason home with a 41-0 defeat. The next week Martin came to South Fulton. The Devils seemed to be somewhat dismayed this week and were behind 6-0 at the half. The team came back in the third quarter, however, and went ahead 7-6, played defense and beat Martin, Tennessee. Then came the cold night at Halls. After 55 yards in penalties and 3 fumbles South Fulton went to work and came home with a 48-12 victory. Lake County was to be the next triumph for the Red Devils. But rain and fumbles came together and South Fulton could never find themselves. This was the first defeat of the season as the Devilmen went down 20-6. The next week the Red Devils regrouped and went to Fulton County. After 2 long punt returns and kickoff returns the Red Devils had Fulton County so confused that they brought home a 61-13 victory. Then the South Fulton team journeyed to Newburn to play for

Newburn's homecoming crowd. After a slow start the Red Devils began to move out in front of Newburn. South Fulton returned to their hometown with a 42-7 victory and spoiled Newburn's homecoming. Then came the game everyone had been waiting for. Fulton City came to South Fulton Devil Country. As some say, it was a matter of the country boys playing the city boys. Before the game was over the country boys had taught the city boys a good lesson and had a 34-14 victory. I understand the fans even went home when the score was 23-14 in South Fulton's favor. For a game of beauty and excitement, the homecoming celebration with Obion Central appeared. The crowd was filled with anticipation and anxiety as the South Fulton Red Devils had never beaten the Obion Central team. This was, however, soon to be a moral victory as well, as South Fulton went straight through the 8 and 9 men Obion Central had placed on the line to stop South Fulton, and South Fulton became an "air bunch" to take home the 41-0 victory over this "never-beaten" team. Then came the last regular season game with Dresden. South Fulton Devilmen struck two times quick with long punt returns and went on to defeat Dresden 39-0. The Red Devils then took the next week off to get ready for the West Tennessee Jaycee Bowl in Milan, Tennessee. The school was particularly filled with intensity this game because it was the first time in the history of the school that South Fulton had ever been invited to participate in a Bowl Game. Although there was a great tragedy in the halls of SFHS with the death of one of the star players and linemen, South Fulton's Devils reorganized and went to Milan. With the Milan Bulldogs on one side of the field and the South Fulton Devils on the other, it proved, indeed, to be a Bowl Game. For the Red Devils returned again to Devil Country with a 19-7 victory, 2 outstanding men's trophies, and a 3' trophy for winning such a game.

Basketball Season Here

(From SFH Scarlet Flash)
The 1966-67 South Fulton High School Basketball season got under way on November 29, 1966 with Gleason. There will be twenty-three games this season. Starting Lineup for the Devils is: Greg Hamilton, Lee Ingram, Alan Ingram, James Bransford, and David Perry. There is no definite line-up for the Devilettes. When asked of his predictions for teams, Coach Cunningham said that only time would tell. "We have much potential, all we need is experience."

Four Red Devils Make All-Conference Team

(From SFH Scarlet Flash)
The Red Devils placed four players on the All-Reelfoot Conference team, selected by coaches of the 12 participating schools. South Fulton led all schools in the amount of players selected. The players were: Greg Hamilton halfback; Steve Green-quarterback; James Counce-end; and Charles Pennington-guard. Johnny Lacy, fullback, received honorable mention.

Cotton Farmers Tell Views In Referendum

Canvassing of returned ballots which was conducted by mail for the 1967 Upland Cotton Referendum revealed that 48 percent of the eligible voters in Fulton County expressed their desires as follows: MARKETING QUOTAS - For 159. Against 9. RESEARCH AND PROMOTION ORDER - For 82. Against 74. Results as to whether Marketing Quotas will be in effect or The Research and Promotion Order will apply will depend on the outcome of the referendum nationally. Final results will be announced as soon as determined.

EXPLORES!

Much of the exploration of eastern Kentucky was done by Dr. Thomas Walker, Dr. Walker and his party came to this state in April, 1750, pushing into the state to a point in the area of what is now Harboursville. One month later they again moved inland, making camp at the site of the present day Salyersville courthouse. The Big Sandy Valley and Levisa Fork were also visited on this trip. Let's Speak Up For Kentucky and its proud past.

News-Shopper Reporter On Scene As Bus Gets Involved In Accident

by Marti Eaken

Several cars stalled between hills on the highway as the snowstorm made the highway slippery. Slow-moving traffic had only packed the surface to a thick sheet of ice. A Greyhound bus, being driven south by Dwayne Dori, came over the hill and saw the cars stalled blocking the road. When he found he could not bring the bus to a stop, he headed off the road where the embankment was slight, and through a grove of trees in the yard of the W. W. Greer family. The bus fishtailed as it left the road and the rear of the bus struck a red 65 Chevrolet sedan, knocking it into the other vehicles and off the road.

A blue 61 Ford driven by James Gregory of Bogota, Tenn. struck the rear of an Ellis transport truck. As yet no one knows what struck a pickup truck driven by P. W. Coyne of St. Augustine, Fla. knocking him into the ditch in front of the bus.

No one on the bus was injured, the nose pushed into a ditch and snowbank and it came to an upright stop with the door sprung open and a luggage door damaged on the right side. It had turned completely around and was headed north. Neighbors lightened the three-hour wait for another relief bus by feeding the youngsters milk and offering dry socks.

Four persons were taken to the Fulton hospital only two were admitted. They were P. W. Coyne, driver of the pickup truck—a total loss—and Wanda James, passenger in the red Chevrolet—also a total loss. Injuries were reported as not serious.

Passengers of the bus heaped praise on driver Dwayne Dori for handling the bus and preventing any injuries to them.

Sgt. Billy Moore of the Tenna Highway Patrol was the investigating officer who finally succeeded in reaching the scene by borrowing a jeep and driving down the shoulder of the highway. Traffic became so congested in every lane, in both directions on the icy highway that no vehicle could move for two hours. A few cars began moving at 4 pm as everyone got out and pushed each other out by hand. The highway was not clear and open until 6:30 pm.

New Year Greetings

For the past three years or more we have been "wiring" in anticipation of 1967 ... the year that Fulton goes on TVA power ... the year the Fulton businesses and households throughout the Fulton electric system network will begin enjoying TVA rates on all the electricity used. The change-over begins in May.

Your Fulton Electric system will be ready to meet the demand. Lower rates will mean more electrical conveniences, and this will mean a greatly increased line load ... more transformers, larger-capacity lines. We'll be ready.

This might also be a good time to suggest that household and business circuits should be examined to see that they will be capable of handling larger loads. Call your electrician sometime in the next month or so and up-date your premises if they need it.

A Happy New Year to all of our customers ... and may it be filled with convenience and luxury you have never before enjoyed ... electrically!

ELECTRICITY POWERS PROGRESS

HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL

In the space age, as in any age, the story of progress is still the story of people. Our own community proves that! We can look at our town with justifiable pride in its advantages and opportunities, thanks to the endeavors of all to make this fine community of ours a better place to live and work.

In the same spirit, we can look with hope and confidence toward a future that holds continued community growth, with greater benefit to all.

As your city officials we seek your valued counsel and co-operation to attain more progress for our community in 1967. All of us working together will bring us the happiness we hope for in the endeavor to make our town a better and more wholesome place in which to live.

Worship at the Church of your Choice

doesn't just stand
there.

It does something.

If you think all's right with the world, read no further.

But if you're like most people, today's headlines are profoundly disturbing.

Narcotics. Alcoholism. Murder. Racial strife. Poverty. Cruelty. War. The "inhuman-ness" our society seems to be breeding.

Your Faith has something to say about every one of the moral and ethical problems facing us. More important, if you listen to what your Faith has to say, you're in a better position to help solve those problems.

But you find out for yourself. Worship this week in your church or synagogue.

Then take your Faith out in the world and put it to work.

"God's work must truly be our own."

Southern Bell

Those Telephone Workmen Ring Bells Of Real Southern Service

The fire at Fry's Auto Parts and a truck hitting a cable near Puckett's Service Station caused temporary interruption of telephone service to about 500 telephone users in the Fulton-South Fulton area over the Christmas weekend.

Larry Ader, local Southern Bell manager, reported that the fire at Fry's Auto Parts Saturday afternoon damaged a 300-pair cable along Broadway in South Fulton. A 200-pair telephone cable was damaged due to the truck accident and temporarily interrupted service to Fulton subscribers.

Ader said, "Our emergency crews moved in promptly and restored service in the very minimum of time required. This was an outstanding job because our men had to splice every one of the many tiny strands of wire to the only other correct wire in the cable, then seal the protecting lead sheath tightly to keep out moisture and air."

Ader stated that the emergency crew consisted of linemen called from Paducah and Mayfield, and a number of local linemen who were on vacation were called back into service and worked long hours restoring service.

Mr. Ader praised the outstanding job done under the direction of B. H. Giles, local Southern Bell plant foreman.

Telephone service has now been completely restored.

I don't think that there's any other time in the year when a person's financial condition is brought into such open realization. With all the emphasis placed on gift-giving, those who can afford pleasant shopping, come side by side with those whose every dollar is intended for the bare necessities; it is impossible to escape the hope and the wishes and the pain on the faces of those who wish that they could do for loved ones, just as their more affluent neighbors do.

Maybe I sound like Scrooge. Maybe I am. But on the other hand if something doesn't happen to change the over-commercialization of Christmas, the picture of the three wise men at the manger is going to have to be changed to the three of them speedily driving an armored car, with the United States mint on top of it.

Actually I ought to leave well enough alone. I ought to look closely at the one dollar gift that Mary Jo gave me. It was a giant sized eraser, about six inches long. On it was written: "I never make MISTEAKS." Maybe this column is a mistake. If it is I'll erase it next week.

Happy New Year. Better start your Christmas shopping today. There's only 316 more shopping days left.

Country Club Ghosts!

Billie Bushart either has the holiday nerves, or there's a phantom house-wrecker in the Country Club Courts. Billie says that pictures are mysteriously falling off her walls. If she didn't think that a recent house-cleaning spree might have something to do with it, she might just be scared out of her wits.

LATTA—

family, the floral tributes that deluged his home reminded us anew that Gilson Latta was a devoted husband and father; a friend's friend; and one of the most delightful people we have ever had the privilege to know.

In recent months I saw him occasionally driving around town with his devoted wife, Mary. Each time I got his friendly wave I made a promise with myself to go by his home for a visit. I never did.

Perhaps it was just as well. With the fall of the First District Gibraltar of Democracy to Republicanism last November, I'm afraid I would have changed my party affiliation to his, for Gilson Latta was that kind of a dedicated and convincing man. It mattered not whether it was politics for his family and friends.

Mr. Latta, a native of Graves County, was one of the founders of the Fulton Bank and until the time of his death was president of the Water Valley Bank, in addition to serving on the board of directors of the Fulton Bank.

For many years he was one of the owners of the Kennett-Murray-Latta stockyards in South Fulton.

Mr. Latta was a well-known farmer, a member of the Fulton Elks Club, and a member of Fulton's First Methodist Church. He was a member of the Water Valley Masonic Lodge No. 756.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Mary Hill Latta; one daughter, Mrs. R. T. Peterson, Fulton; three sisters, Mrs. Faran Butterfield, Orlando, Fla., Mrs. Herman Stokes, Anita, Okla., and Mrs. Vodie Hardin, Fulton; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the First Methodist Church by the Rev. W. R. Barnes, the Rev. Lowell Council and the Rev. Homer Johns. Burial was in the Water Valley Cemetery. Arrangements were in charge of Whitnel Funeral Home.

County Students Attending Meet With UK Groups

Beverly June Westbrook, a University of Kentucky sophomore from Fulton County, will join approximately 1,200 college students of all nationalities at the eighth National Student Assembly of the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walvy Westbrook, Route One, Hickman, Miss Westbrook and 11 other UK students will stay at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago for the Assembly program, which started December 27 and ends on January 2.

Participants will discuss urbanization in small group sessions, visit the community, both in the city and suburbia, attend art and cultural exhibits, and experience face to face confrontation with representatives of various forces in the community.

"Much of the Assembly program will be 'in the streets.' Divided into 'colleges' of 200 persons the students will move through the city to visit community organizations and frontier experiments in the arts. The topic of what steel and concrete say to people who must live in the city will be explored in an 'urban space hunt.' Outstanding education, political and civic leaders have been secured to guide the students in their discussions.

Guest speakers for the Assembly include Dr. Robert Theobald, noted British economist; Malcolm Boyd, referred to as the "expresso priest," and Oscar Brown, Jr., entertainer, singer, composer, and night club operator.

WARREN THOMPSON

Warren C. Thompson, Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service forage crops specialist, follows in the steps of his father, by being named "man of the year" in service to Kentucky agriculture by The Progressive Farmer Magazine.

Thompson was cited by the magazine for his efforts in helping Kentuckians make better profits from livestock and dairying as a result of using improved pastures.

Thompson's father, the late Ed Thompson, was chosen master farmer by The Progressive Farmer in 1950. The late Mr. Thompson operated a farm near Hickman in Fulton County for many years.

An occasional contributor to The Progressive Farmer himself, Thompson is a resident of Lexington. He is a native of Fulton County where he worked as an extension agent before becoming a forage specialist.

The magazine points out that cattle income in Kentucky increased from $111,998,000 in 1961 to $157,658,000 in 1966, primarily due to farmers having a more adequate feed supply. This, says the magazine, is largely a result of Kentucky's extension forage program, headed by Thompson.

"It is Warren C. Thompson and the Kentucky Forage Council who are supplying blueprints for pastures that produce more meat and milk per acre," says the magazine.

Thompson, who was instrumental in organizing the Forage Council, now serves as the group's secretary.

General Electric will spend about $2 million in construction and will employ some 700 more workers in production of electron tubes.

Construction was completed in 1966 on two major metal industry plants in the state. They are the Harvey Aluminum Co.'s $50 million rolling mill at Lewisport, where 1,000 persons will be on the payroll, and Crucible Steel Co. of America's multimillion-dollar permanent magnet plant addition at Elizabethtown. Crucible officials said the work force of 450 is expected to grow to 1,500 by 1970.

MSU To Place More Student Teachers In Schools In '67

MURRAY, Ky. — Murray State University will put a record number of students into Kentucky schools for student teaching during the coming spring semester, the university's director of student teaching has announced.

Dr. Donald E. Jones, assistant professor of education, said 322 seniors have made application. This is a 19 per cent increase over the previous high of 270 set last spring, and a 56 per cent increase over the current semester.

Student teaching, sometimes called practice teaching, is required of seniors who are completing the requirements for teacher certification. It may be taken during either semester of a student's senior year, but most sign up for it during the spring.

A few years ago, almost all Murray State students did their practice work at the University School. Today, however, 85 per cent or more of it is done off campus. This spring, according to Dr. Jones, students will be assigned in 63 schools.

The area covered by these schools is bounded on the south by Fulton, on the north by Owensboro, on the west by Carlisle and Hickman counties and on the east by Jefferson County. Dr. Jones said each student may list schools in which he prefers to teach on his application. However, other considerations may prevent assignment to one of these schools, he said.

Almost one-fourth of the student teachers this spring will be in the elementary grades, Dr. Jones said.

State To Cease Lease Of Reelfoot Land

So that the public shall not be denied ready access to Reelfoot Lake, the State Game & Fish Commission meeting Wednesday at Paris Landing State Park, voted to discontinue until next spring the practice of allowing private individuals to lease shoreline land at the lake.

The action was taken following a report by Walter Criley, planning engineer with the Tennessee Dept. of Conservation. The new ruling would not affect present lease holders.

Mr. Criley and his department are engaged in a land-use study at Reelfoot to determine the best manner in which the public can benefit from the lake. It began its work during the summer at the same time work on the new Reelfoot lake state park in Obion county was begun. A Memphis engineering firm has now surveyed the new Obion county park and is preparing topographical maps which will show the locations of various picnic and camping areas. A portion of this park is to be opened next summer.

Mr. Criley's study will also take into consideration the advantages the lake has as a tourist attraction, sportsmen's paradise and for private business development.

Game & Fish Commission Director Fred Stanberry said his department is the administrator of about 30,000 acres of Reelfoot lake shorelines and water which the state owns. According to Mr. Stanberry most of the agreements that his department has are primarily with boat dock operators.

The study of Reelfoot, according to Criley, should be completed by next spring or summer at which time the state may again start leasing, depending on the findings of the study.
